

The Intelligencer.

FREW & CAMPBELL.

Office: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourth Street.
TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 10.

We had a pleasant call yesterday from Geo. Adams, Esq., recently returned from Florida. Mr. Adams has been absent from the city with his family since last July, sojourning at various points in Virginia and the South. A part of the winter he spent in Havana (Cuba) and part of it at Nassau, one of the Bahama islands, 250 miles southeast from Florida. He remained at Nassau about seven weeks. It is a good climate but a poor sort of a country. The temperature in the winter averages from 70 to 75, and is a desirable locality for invalids. The hotels are largely supplied by the New York steamers and hence living out there on the American plan is somewhat expensive, averaging about $3.00 per day at the hotels.

The hotel season however is short, beginning about the middle of November and closing on the 1st of May. Nassau is a place of about 10,000 inhabitants, three-fourths of whom are negroes. The whites are largely English or English descent, as the island belongs to England. Mr. Adams was at Havana, and in the interior of Cuba, for a short time. He does not fancy the island very much, especially the city of Havana, where the streets are narrow and dirty, and the population an undesirable mixture. Spanish paper money is at 50 per cent of a discount for gold, and all hotel bills have to be settled in gold. The living at these hotels is only tolerable, and the price is from three to four dollars per day.

Mr. Adams comes back much improved in health, as also does his son, who has been an invalid, and on whose account the trip was taken. He says that he did not find any place in his voyaging and traveling that he liked as well as Wheeling. For solid comfort he prefers it.

MEETING OF THE NAIL MEN.—ACTION IN REGARD TO THE DEATH OF MR. WOODWARD.—THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO EXTENSION.—At the regular weekly meeting of the Nail Manufacturers yesterday afternoon, at the office of the Riverside company, appropriate action was taken in regard to the death of Mr. S. H. Woodward, late President of the La Belle works. Among other proceedings the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the undersigned nail manufacturers of Wheeling and vicinity, have heard with deep regret of the death of S. H. Woodward, Esq., a gentleman who has long been identified with us as one of the most prominent and influential manufacturers of the city. We recognized in him a worthy example of an upright and useful life, and esteemed him for his wisdom in counsel and his integrity in business. He died much in his career as a manufacturer to give high character to Wheeling nails throughout the country, and in this respect, as in other phases of his successful life, he illustrated the truth and value of the old maxim that "honesty is the best policy."

Resolved, That these proceedings be furnished to the daily papers of the city and a copy thereof sent to the family of the deceased.

These resolutions were signed as follows:—Riverside, Iron Works, Denwood Iron Works, Wheeling Iron and Nail Company, Belmont Nail Company, Bellair Nail Works, Laughlin Nail Company and Jefferson Iron Works.

Among other matters discussed at yesterday's meeting of the nail men was the relation of the projected extension of the Hampfield railroad to the coke question. It was the unanimous sentiment of those present that the City Council should look well to the question of cheap coke, and concluding any right of way privilege to the railroad. The feeling was that Wheeling should be placed on an exact equality with Pittsburgh in the matter of rates, and that the railroad company ought to declare themselves in unequivocal terms on this point.

IN MEMORIAM.
The Late Rev. William Morley Pusehouse, Editors Intelligencer.

Rev. William Morley Pusehouse, L. D., Wesleyan minister, who died recently in London in the fifty-sixth year of his age, is worthy of more than a passing notice. Dr. Pusehouse was known wherever the English language is spoken as one of the greatest and most eloquent orators of the present age. I suppose it will be acceptable to the people generally, and to the Methodist particularly, to read the experience of the Doctor in his last moments, as given in an English paper just received. But previous to doing so allow me to present a paragraph from a recent issue of the "Christianity and the Life," "Christ the Resurrection and the Life."

"O! the glorious idea of a completed resurrection which at once ransoms the body from the grave and the soul from the foul sepulchre of sin. These words would stir the heart of Paul at this time. He would exclaim to you 'Jesus and the resurrection?' Is there not something in the things that thrill the heart of a believer just as an emigrant's heart is stirred in some far distant settlement by the sweet song of home? Does not time appear more solemn and majestic and duty receive a richer stimulus and the life that now is appear but a light thing in comparison with the life which that resurrection inspires? Dwell on this comforting thought, then, tempted and sorrowing believer, for it speaks encouragement and assurance to thee. Art thou a mourner? The sable which thou wearest is only the emblem of that darkness which has fallen upon thee. As the time of his departure drew near he asked, 'Is Am I going, Doctor?' The physician, with a sigh, answered, 'Yes.' Then his devoted wife, with breaking heart, asked, 'Have you a message for me, my darling?' He said, 'I have loved you fondly. Love Jesus and meet me in Heaven.' She then thought of an absent son, and said, 'And Percy?' Tell him to love Jesus and meet me in Heaven. 'And yourself?' how do you feel? 'I feel that Jesus is a living reality. Jesus! Jesus! Jesus! An heavenly smile, one rapid and upward glance, and he dropped. There was silence, broken only by the sob of the child, and the time of his departure drew near. No words were more appropriate to his departure than his own eloquent tribute to the sainted Cookman: 'He went home like a plumed warrior for whom the awaiting doors were lifted as he was stricken into victory in his prime; and he had nothing to do at the last but mount into the chariot of Israel and go sweeping through the gates, washed in the blood of the Lamb.'"

Miss O'Brien's Story About the Emigrant Ship.

New York Herald.
In the past seven days there landed at this port 10,841 immigrants—which is a good average. These newcomers were from nearly all the countries of Europe, from Germany, from Ireland and from the Scandinavian peninsula mostly. It is rather a notable circumstance that just upon the close of such a period of extensive arrivals the world is favored with an account of the horrors of a voyage in an emigrant ship, done by the pen of Miss Charlotte G. O'Brien, daughter of Smith O'Brien. This lady has discovered that a voyage across the Atlantic on an emigrant ship is not altogether a picnic. It is rather late in the day for the making of such a discovery, perhaps. Some forty years ago this story would have been new; and the horrors of the description would, in fact, have been really sensational. But in the progress of time the wretchedness of the steerage has been ameliorated; and though the condition is not now all that could be desired, it is, perhaps, nearly as good as the passenger pays for. But there is a party in Ireland that endeavors to make opinion and to excite sentiment against the departure of the Irish people for America. If the people emigrate, that pressure of population which makes the struggle for existence so difficult, there is less discontent and less chance for brawling demagogues to thrive by agitation. This party, therefore, labors to stop emigration, and Miss O'Brien's story of the steerage is written in the interest of that party.

Accidents on the C. & P. Railroad.
STRENTVILLE, May 8.—The midnight freight down on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad met with an accident last night between LaGrange and Warrenton below this city. Two horses had fallen into a cattle guard and threw the engine and four cars over the embankment, making them. The engineer, said to be named Allison, of Pittsburgh, had his arm broken and was badly scalded. The fireman was slightly injured.

WELLSVILLE, O., May 8.—Joshua Headly, a Cleveland and Pittsburgh engineer, met with a singular and distressing accident. Shortly after leaving here for Cleveland last night the water gauge glass in his locomotive burst and a small piece of sharp glass struck him in the right eye, totally destroying the sight of that member.

We believe that Tatt's Pills are destined to be the medicine of the world. They impart a power by which every organ of the body becomes healthy. Very few diseases exist that cannot be relieved by purging the bowels and restoring the liver to the normal condition, and for this purpose no remedy has ever been invented that has as happy an effect as these pills. They never weaken the system, but act mildly and give tone to the whole body.

DEED.
McCUNNEL—On Sunday night, May 8, 1881, at 11:30 o'clock, Mary E. Dillon, wife of W. W. McCunnel, in the 27th year of her age, deceased. Deceased from her husband's residence, on Chapin street, below Thirty-seventh street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends of the family are invited to attend. Interment at the Peninsula Cemetery. HALLER—On Monday evening, May 9, 1881, Alice, daughter of W. H. and M. A. Haller, aged 9 months and 22 days, deceased. Funeral from the residence of her parents, No. 1221 McCullough street, Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Friends of the family are invited to attend. Interment at Peninsula Cemetery.

ROBINSON—On Monday, May 9, 1881, at 3 o'clock p. m., LUKKA, daughter of W. H. and Louisa J. Robinson, aged 2 months, deceased. Funeral from the residence of her parents, 1221 Main street, this Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend. Interment at Greenwood Cemetery.

These resolutions were signed as follows:—Riverside, Iron Works, Denwood Iron Works, Wheeling Iron and Nail Company, Belmont Nail Company, Bellair Nail Works, Laughlin Nail Company and Jefferson Iron Works.
